WARFARE AT SEA ON INCREASE

esses Closely Approaching Those of Peak Months During the World War Are Claimed by Hitler's High Command, But British Admiralty Insists They are Less Than Half; Night Raiders Again Vis- it Berlin

GOERING SAYS ALL ISLANDS CONQUERABLE

By the Associated Press France appeared today on the verge of plunging into the war against her old ally, Great Britain—presumably with strong German support—on a new battlefield, in French-ruled Syria in the Middle East.

In Vichy, Chief of State Philippe Petain called an urgent cabinet meeting late this afternoon, the second of the day, after conferring with Generalissimo Maxime Weygand, commander in chief of France's African armies.

In Paris, the populace was warned to be ready for a practice air-raid alert tomorrow—the first since Adolf Hitler's conquering French forces swept into the old French capital.

Simultaneously, the French-controlled Beirut radio charged that the British were preparing to attack Syria and declared that French forces were ready to "reply effectively."

Authorized Nazi quarters in Berlin, with apparent significance, said Germany would give France a "free hand" to repel any British attempts against her sovereignty.

In the battle of the Atlantic, Hitler's High Command reported that 746,000 tons of British merchant shipping was destroyed in May—a figure closely approaching the 852,000 tons of allied ships sent to the bottom in Britain's darkest hour of the World War.

This was in April, 1917, when Kaiser Wilhelm's sink-on-sight campaign, backed by a fleet of 11 sea-going U-boats, sank 430 ships. At the height of the campaign, it was reported that Britain had only six weeks of food supplies left.

One out of every four ships leaving United Kingdom ports never returned.

The German High Command said that in last month's assaults on British shipping, Nazi U-boats sank 479,000 tons while the Luftwaffe destroyed 215,000 tons. Destruction of the remaining 52,000 tons was attributed to surface raiders.

DISGUISED NAZIS PASS THROUGH TURKEY TO SYRIA

Istanbul, Turkey, June 2.—Delayed—(U)—Germans in civilian clothes recently passed through Turkey to Syria with Bulgarian passports, unofficial sources asserted today.

Since their papers were in order, it was understood Turkey had taken the attitude the responsibility was Bulgaria's.

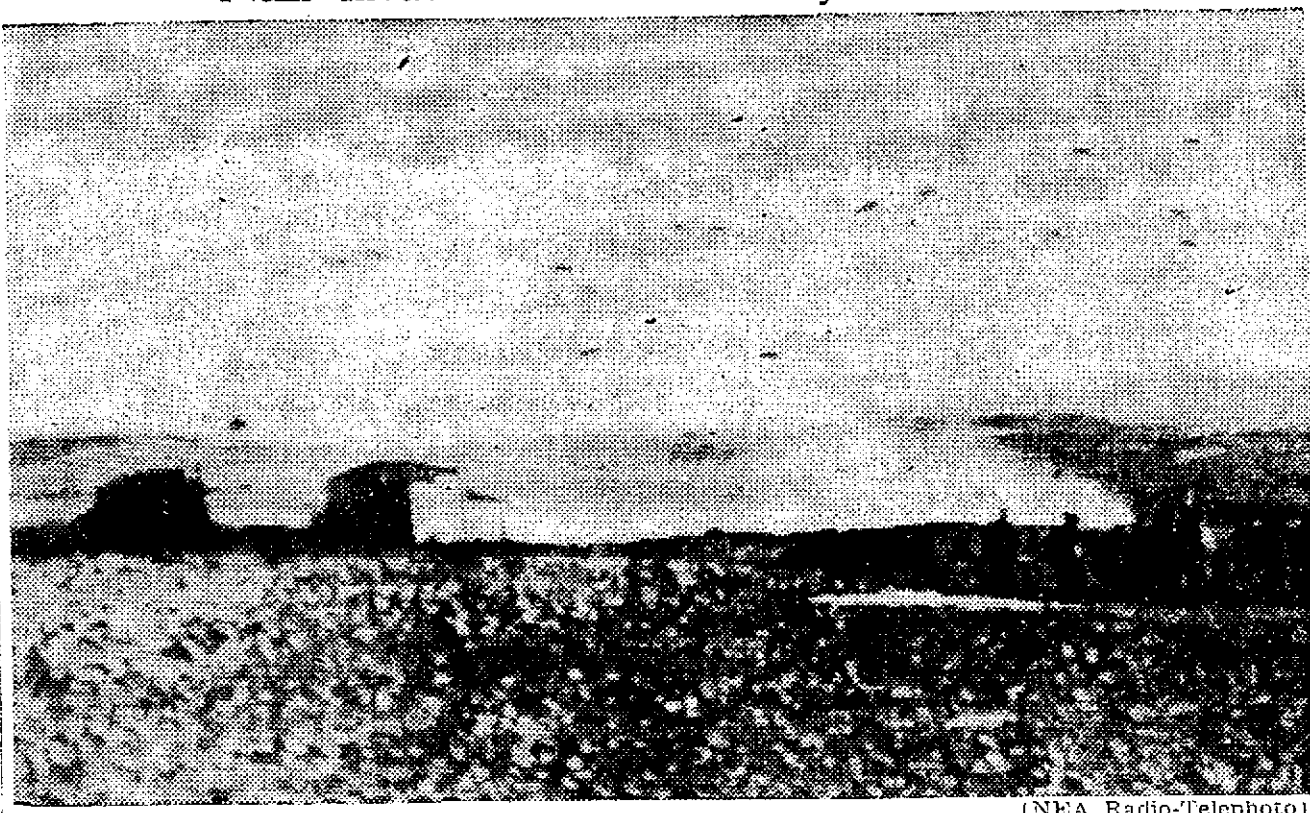

It was reported in Ankara that Germany had advised Turkey to delay sending a boat to the Greek port of Piraeus for the Turkish ambassador to Greece and his family, asserting that at present she could not guarantee safe passage.

Meanwhile, indications that Turkey expected no immediate crisis were seen in the preparations of President Ismet Inonu to come to Istanbul shortly for a seashore holiday.

The Ankara radio, commenting on what it said were German claims that Iraqis would continue the fight against the British in the north, said this was impossible against British motorized units.

The national assembly approved today a project to issue 20-year railroad bonds for construction of lines from Diarbekir, Kurdistan, to Iraq and Iran (Persia). At present the only rail communication with Iraq is via French-mandated Syria. (Turn To Page Nine)

TRUCK HAULING OVER WIDE AREA AT A STANDSTILL

Blockade Against Movement of Vehicular Freight Over Most of Thirteen States Continues as Conciliators Strive For Settlement

ROVING PICKETS BUSY

Pittsburgh, June 3.—(P)—The blockade against movement of truck freight over most of a 13-state area continued today as federal and state conciliators strove for a settlement of the drivers' walkout over demands for a general wage increase.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, whose members normally handle 80 to 90 per cent of the freight truck hauling, met in a closed session with representatives of the A. F. L. General Teamsters Union and John A. Moffitt, conciliator for the U. S. Department of Labor, Robert Wagner, state labor mediator, also attended the sessions.

Meanwhile, more than 100 small independent trucking operators, not affiliated with the association, but who usually follow its lead in contract matters, signed agreements with the union, thereby releasing their equipment.

So strict was the policing by roving squads of pickets however, there was little material being delivered.

Near Uniontown a truck and trailer of the Keystone Transfer Company hauling supplies from West Virginia to the U. S. navy yards at Philadelphia was forced to turn back and held up five hours. The truck without the trailer finally was permitted to go through, H. D. Ryan, owner of the company said.

In Pittsburgh, scores of trucks were stopped, escorted to parking lots and left there. Union officials said distance shipments of food, meat, milk and other perishables (Turn To Page Nine)

NEXT MOVE TO BE KNOWN SOON

Rome, June 3.—(P)—High Fascists virtually confirmed today that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini had agreed on the next move of the war, one of the highest importance, in their five-hour meeting at the Brenner Pass yesterday.

Actions of the Axis powers will show the decision reached in the meeting in due time, they said. Foreign Minister Count Ciano's newspaper, Il Telegrafo di Leghorn, added that the results would be seen within the next few months.

Informed quarters predicted yesterday that Crete would be used as a springboard for new air attacks on the triangle formed by the island of Cyprus, the Egyptian port of Alexandria and the Palestine port of Haifa.

A spokesman for the Fascist regime pointed out that previous (Turn To Page Nine)

Shull Candidacy for State Supreme Court Lacks Party Backing, Chieftain Declares

Entry of President of Monroe County Common Pleas Bench Into Race For Nomination Comes As Surprise to Leaders

TO MEET ON JUNE 11TH

Harrisburg, June 3.—(P)—President Judge Samuel E. Shull of Monroe county common pleas court has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the state supreme court, but Democratic National Committeeman David L. Lawrence indicated today he lacked organization backing.

Lawrence, a party chieftain for the past decade, said Shull's entry into the race last night came as a surprise.

Party leaders have mentioned frequently in past weeks the name of Judge W. Russell Carr, of Fayette county, as having the inside track for the supreme court nomination.

The position now is held by Justice William Parker, a Republican elevated by Governor James from the superior court after the death of H. Edgar Barnes, a Democrat.

Justice Parker's place on the superior court, since filled by the governor's selection of Charles E. Kenworthy, of Montgomery county, also has to be contested at the November off-year elections.

The Democratic state committee will meet here on June 11 to "recommend" candidates for the party nomination for the supreme and superior courts.

Judge Michael A. Musmanno, of the Allegheny county common pleas court, has been mentioned prominently for the supreme and superior courts. (Turn To Page Six)

CHURCH FORCES ASK CHANGES IN OLD BLUE LAWS

BY HAROLD WARD

Harrisburg, June 3.—(P)—Organized church forces of Pennsylvania urged the legislature today to increase the fine for violation of the Sunday "blue laws" as a means of protecting "law-abiding merchants."

Representatives of the church groups voiced their views at a joint hearing before the Senate law and order committee and the House judiciary special committee on a bill to raise the fine for "worldly" employment on the Sabbath from $4 to $25 for the first offense; $50 for the second and $100 for each subsequent violation. A jail term of six days could also be imposed. No witnesses appeared against the measure.

"The present enforcement of this law is most unfair to law-abiding merchants who suffer from the conduct of non-law-abiding business men," said Dr. William B. Forney, secretary of the Pennsylvania Lord's Day Alliance.

He told the committee that some stores were "glad to remain open for business on Sunday and pay a $4 fine and $2.50 costs."

Senator A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield) asked what effect enactment of the bill would have on gasoline filling stations. (Turn To Page Nine)

BRITAIN'S DAY NUMBERED IN MEDITERRANEAN

Fuehrer's Newspaper, Focusing Attention Sharply On Island of Cyprus as Next Likely Objective of Reich Forces, Makes Grave Prediction

QUIET ON MEETING

Berlin, June 3.—(P)—Britain's days in the Mediterranean are numbered, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, declared today, focusing attention sharply on the island of Cyprus as the next likely objective of Germany's armed forces.

Cyprus, the last British island stronghold in the eastern Mediterranean, serves as an advance base for naval and air units guarding approaches to Palestine and Suez.

So long as it remains under the Union Jack, observers pointed out, it constitutes a potential threat to any Axis ambitions for domination of the Mediterranean or the Middle East.

These sources attached added significance to the Voelkischer Beobachter's prediction because it followed so closely on Hitler's unheralded meeting with Premier Mussolini yesterday in the Brenner Pass.

They also noted with interest the order of the day issued by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering last night, in which he congratulated the air force on the conquest of Crete and said it had proved Hitler's assertion that "there are no unconquerable islands."

The nature of the discussions between Hitler and Mussolini remained a state secret, but Germans expressed belief the world would not long be kept in doubt.

Long-range bombers scored hits on a large merchantman in the Atlantic west of the Faeroes, while other air units bombed the mouth of the Humber river by day. (Turn To Page Nine)

PEACE OFFICERS MEETING AT ERIE

New Castle, June 3.—(P)—F. B. I. agents from the Pittsburgh office moved to Erie today for a "police mobilization" conference after telling a group of 50 peace officers here yesterday that Communism "or any other subversive force in the United States" can be paralyzed in 24 hours.

The meeting here was the first in a series of district conferences. They were scheduled in response to President Roosevelt's call for police mobilization during the national emergency proclaimed by the president last week.

Joseph E. Thornton, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Pittsburgh, told police officers here:

EXTENSION OF POWER PROPOSED

Substantial Opposition Materializes in Congress to War Department's Recommendation That President Roosevelt be Given Unprecedented Authority to Take Over Any Property Needed to Further Defense Program

HAS EARLY APPROVAL OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Washington, June 3.—(P)—Substantial opposition materialized in congress today to the War Department recommendation that President Roosevelt be given unprecedented power to take over—"temporarily" or "permanently"—any property needed to further the defense program.

Legislative leaders, however, predicted prompt consideration for the proposal, which, if approved, will endow Mr. Roosevelt with even greater authority over property than President Wilson had in World War days.

One of the first to attack the War Department's legislation was Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) who has fought a number of the administration's defense program measures.

"Under this bill," he told reporters, "the president could take over all the property in New York, Montana or any other state and convert the states into game preserves or bird refuges."

Wheeler foresaw "a major fight" on the legislation in the Senate, and several members of the House military committee were cool to the proposal.

The proposed legislation, it was disclosed, had received advance approval from the president, the navy and the Office of Production Management.

There was considerable general interest as to whether the broad powers might be invoked to end strikes hampering defense production. In the absence of any official statement on this point, some legislators were of the opinion that the bill would authorize the taking over of strike-bound plants.

In addition to permitting the president to take over for any period any type of property adaptable for use in national defense, the legislation also would authorize the chief executive to sell or otherwise dispose of the requisitioned property.

Senator Wheeler said he saw "no reason to give the president the right to take over either the real (Turn To Page Nine)

EXPERTS STUDY PLANE WRECK FOR SABOTAGE

San Diego, Calif., June 3.—(P)—The unexplained performance of a $250,000 British bomber that sideslipped into San Diego bay and killed four aviation experts aroused suspicion today of sabotage.

FBI and company agents, investigating the crash, awaited salvaging of additional pieces of wreckage for examination.

Failure of the controls apparently caused the crash yesterday of the great camouflaged ship, the type used by the British to bomb Berlin.

Observers said the bomber took off from Lindbergh field easily enough and climbed swiftly. Then it suddenly slipped sideways into the bay. The left wing struck. The plane was shattered and sank.

A crash boat rescued Lewis M. McAnnon, 25, of Woodstock, Ill., one of the five men aboard. Seriously injured, he was taken to the naval air station sick bay.

The body of Mechanic William H. Rieser, 28, Cambridge, Mass., was recovered.

Still unaccounted for and believed pinned in the sunken nose section of the ship were the bodies of Consolidated Aircraft's chief test pilot, William Wheatle, 38, Chester, N. Y., one of the country's most able aviators; Alan T. Austin, 28, Kansas City, Mo., assistant test pilot; and (Turn To Page Nine)

N. P. C. PLANS SUBWAY UNDER HICKORY STREET

Mail Order Company is Granted Permission by Council to Construct Tunnel From Main Building to Former Pickett Hardware Property

MANY ROUTINE ITEMS

Many matters, mostly of a routine nature, occupied the attention of the Warren borough council at its June meeting, held last night in the municipal building. Outstanding among the actions taken was the granting of permission to the New Process Company for the construction of a subway under Hickory street from its main building to the Pickett Hardware building, recently purchased.

According to the plans presented to council, the subway will be 60 feet long, eight feet wide and six feet six inches in height. The top of the subway will be four feet below the surface of the street, it was stated. Cost of the project was not revealed.

The permit for construction was granted unanimously with the provision that a $5,000 bond be given by the company.

Leon Laskaris appeared before council on behalf of the New Process Company and explained the proposed plans for the subway.

An ordinance, presented by Councilman D. W. Lewis for the paving of Market street, between Pennsylvania avenue and the mill race was passed on third and final reading. It provides for the paving of the street to a width of 45 feet.

A request from M. J. Parrish, of the Parrish Battery Service, for permission to place a gasoline tank between the sidewalk and curb in front of his building in lower Market street, was approved.

Upon motion by Councilman J. H. DeFries, the police committee was authorized to advertise for a new motorcycle and side car to replace the present machine.

Two new fire hydrants were authorized by council upon recommendation by Harold S. Hampson, fire committee chairman. One of these will be on the property of the United Refining company in the north ward and the other on the property of the Pennsylvania Fuel and Iron Company in the fourth ward. Both will serve adjacent streets. (Turn To Page Six)

PLAN TO AVERT CROP SHORTAGE

Harrisburg, June 3.—(P)—Steps to prevent shortages in crops so there would be no halt in national defense were taken today by the Pennsylvania Council of Defense.

The council requested Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light to draw up a program of "strategic crops" that should be included in this summer's plantings.

A special meeting of the agricultural advisory committee, which acts with the council, will be held next Friday to complete the program.

"The need for specific crops has been made very urgent," said Dr. Arnold C. Maris, director of the state council. "By recent reports of a food shortage in England, and by reports from Washington urging conservation of certain food resources."

EFFORT MADE TO IMMEDIATE STRIKE OF LUMBERJACKS

Board at Washington Recommends Work Be Resumed Pending Settlement and Reminds Union Of President's Assertion In Recent Address

CONFER AT CAPITAL

By the Associated Press The Defense Mediation Board made a new effort today for a settlement in the 25-day old strike of 12,000 CIO lumberworkers in the Pacific northwest, which has curtailed supplies needed for the defense program.

The board already has recommended that the strikers resume work pending a settlement and has reminded the union of President Roosevelt's assertion in his address a week ago that the American people expect the impartial recommendations of the board to be accepted.

Thus, some Washington circles thought, the lumber strike might bring a show-down on the administration's determination to end work stoppages hampering defense production.

President B. M. Norton of the International Woodworkers of America came from Seattle to Washington today to confer with board officials. Prior to the meeting there was no indication that the union had receded from its original demands against 52 logging and sawmill operations in the Puget Sound area.

Seventy thousand Chrysler Corporation workers at Detroit won wage increases and bonuses totaling $15,000,000 last night, subject to ratification at meetings of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) membership.

The agreement, accepted by UAW leaders, calls for an eight cent hourly wage boost and payment bonus in December to workers with one year seniority. The old bonus was $40, and Chrysler spokesmen noted the bonus increase substituted for vacations with pay in 1942.

The wage gain, added to a two-cent boost last November, was made retroactive to June 1. Corporation officials said the base pay or to June 1 was $5.85 an hour.

A mediation board appeal to "show their patriotism" prompted the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council at San Francisco to ask its members last night to return to work at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. The council action however did not end an AFL machinists' strike against Bethlehem, nor did it affect the AFL and CIO machinists' work stoppage in ten other bay area shipyards holding $500,000,000 in defense orders.

Clarence A. Dykstra, head chairman, asked the Bethlehem management and union in telephone calls yesterday to resume operations pending a hearing June 9 in Washington. The union council last (Turn To Page Nine)

VICKEY CABINET CONSIDERS LATE DEVELOPMENTS

Vichy, France, June 3.—(P)—Chief of State Marshal Petain called an urgent cabinet meeting late this afternoon, the second of the day, after a conference with General Maxime Weygand, chief of France's African forces.

At the earlier cabinet meeting, which lasted for two hours and was said to have been devoted to discussion of tense French-British relations, Weygand was present, but the marshal was not.

From this earlier session Weygand, Petain's African pro-consul, was understood to have gone straight to the marshal, who immediately called the second meeting.

The British-controlled radio charged that the British were preparing an attack against Syria as the French government held an unusually long meeting on what was reported to be the tense relations between France and her old ally Britain.

"The radio said the British were campaigning with 'false news' of German troop landings on France's eastern mandate.

French forces are ready to defend their territory and 'know how to reply effectively,' the broadcast said.

The fact that General Maxime Weygand, who technically is not a member of the government, was (Turn To Page Nine)

JUSTICE HUGHES IS RETIRING

Eleventh Man in History to Serve as Chief Justice of The United States, To Relinquish His High Office July First and Return To Private Life Because Of "Consideration of Health and Age"

RESIGNATION LETTER GOES TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, June 3.—(P)—Charles Evans Hughes, eleventh man in history to serve as chief justice of the United States, will relinquish his high office July 1 and retire to private life because of "considerations of health and age."

The decision of the 79-year-old jurist to retire marks the end of supreme court service that has covered 19 years—first as associate and later as chief justice. It also closes a career in public life that has been unusually varied and distinguished.

As soon as the chief justice's intention became known, speculation here fastened on the question of his successor. Informed sources freely and almost unanimously predicted that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, a leading administration figure, would be President Roosevelt's choice to succeed Hughes in the nation's highest judicial position.

By filing this vacancy and an earlier one that has existed since retirement of Justice James C. McReynolds last Feb. 1, President Roosevelt will have named seven of the nine members of the tribunal. Senator Byrnes (D-SC), upon whom the administration relies heavily in pushing legislation through congress, is expected to be the other appointee.

Chief Justice Hughes sent his retirement letter to the White House yesterday before mounting the bench to preside over the court for its last session until next October 6.

Although no one knew then of the letter, spectators noticed that the jurist did not show his customary vigor. They thought later this might have been due to his sadness in taking leave of the position he has held since 1930.

"Considerations of health and age make it necessary that I should be relieved of the duties which I have been discharging with increasing difficulty," the chief justice wrote to Mr. Roosevelt.

The text of the letter was telephoned from Washington to the offices of the temporary White House in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a few miles from Hyde Park, and delivered to Mr. Roosevelt at the estate.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote out the telegram of reply in longhand. The news, he said, came "as a great shock" because he had counted on the chief justice's continuing his "splendid service for many years to come."

Since recovering from an illness in the summer of 1939, Hughes had strictly conserved his energy for his judicial duties. He rarely accepted engagements.

The illness of Mrs. Hughes the past few months also contributed to his decision to leave the bench. It was said unofficially. She has wanted him to devote his remaining days to relaxation and travel.

They plan to remain in Washington the remainder of this month then, if Mrs. Hughes is (Turn To Page Nine)

There was considerable general interest as to whether the broad powers might be invoked to end strikes hampering defense production. In the absence of any official statement on this point, some legislators were of the opinion that the bill would authorize the taking over of strike-bound plants.

In addition to permitting the president to take over for any period any type of property adaptable for use in national defense, the legislation also would authorize the chief executive to sell or otherwise dispose of the requisitioned property.

Senator Wheeler said he saw "no reason to give the president the right to take over either the real (Turn To Page Nine)

EXPERTS STUDY PLANE WRECK FOR SABOTAGE

San Diego, Calif., June 3.—(P)—The unexplained performance of a $250,000 British bomber that crashed into San Diego bay and killed four aviation experts aroused suspicion today of sabotage.

FBI and company agents, investigating the crash, awaited salvaging of additional pieces of wreckage for examination.

Failure of the controls apparently caused the crash yesterday of the great camouflaged ship, of the type used by the British to bomb Berlin.

Observers said the bomber took off from Lindbergh field easily enough and climbed swiftly. Then it suddenly slipped sideways into the bay. The left wing struck. The plane was shattered and sank.

A crash boat rescued Lewis M. McAnnon, 25, of Woodstock, Ill., one of the five men aboard. Seriously injured, he was taken to the naval air station sick bay.

The body of Mechanic William H. Rieser, 23, Cambridge, Mass., was recovered.

N. P. C. PLANS SUBWAY UNDER HICKORY STREET

Mail Order Company is Granted Permission by Council to Construct Tunnel From Main Building to Former Pickett Hardware Property

MANY ROUTINE ITEMS

Many matters, mostly of a routine nature, occupied the attention of the Warren borough council at its June meeting, held last night in the municipal building. Outstanding among the actions taken was the granting of permission to the New Process Company for the construction of a subway under Hickory street from its main building to the Pickett Hardware building, recently purchased.

According to the plans presented to council, the subway will be 60 feet long, eight feet wide and six feet six inches in height. The top of the subway will be four feet below the surface of the street, it was stated. Cost of the project was not revealed.

The permit for construction was granted unanimously with the provision that a $5,000 bond be given by the company.

Leon Laskaris appeared before council on behalf of the New Process Company and explained the proposed plans for the subway.

An ordinance, presented by Councilman D. W. Lewis, for the paving of Market street between Pennsylvania avenue and the mill race was passed on third and final reading. It provides for the paving of the street to a width of 45 feet.

A request from M. J. Parrish, of the Parrish Battery Service, for permission to place a gasoline tank between the sidewalk and curb in front of his building in lower Market street, was approved.

Upon motion by Councilman J. H. DeFries, the police committee was authorized to advertise for a new motorcycle and side car to replace the present machine.

Two new fire hydrants were authorized by council upon recommendation by Harold S. Hampton, fire committee chairman. One of these will be on the property of the United Refining Company in the ninth ward and the other on the property of the Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron Company in the fourth ward. Both will serve ad- (Turn To Page Six)

PLAN TO AVERT CROP SHORTAGE

Harrisburg, June 3.—(P)—Steps to prevent shortages in crops so there would be no halt in national defense were taken today by the Pennsylvania Council of Defense.

The council requested Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light to draw up a program of "strategic crops" that should be included in this summer's plantings.

A special meeting of the agricultural advisory committee, which acts with the council, will be held next Friday to complete the program.

"The need for specific crops has been made very urgent," said Dr. Armand C. Marts, director of the state council. "By recent reports of a food shortage in England, and by reports from Washington urging conservation of certain food resources."

EFFORT MADE TO MEDIATE STRIKE OF LUMBERJACKS

Board at Washington Recommends Work Be Resumed Pending Settlement and Reminds Union Of President's Assertion In Recent Address

CONFER AT CAPITAL

By the Associated Press
The Defense Mediation Board made a new effort today for a settlement in the 25-day old strike of 12,000 CIO lumberworkers in the Pacific northwest, which has curtailed supplies needed for the defense program.

The board already has recommended that the strikers resume work pending a settlement and has reminded the union of President Roosevelt's assertion in his address a week ago that the American people expect the impartial recommendations of the board to be accepted.

Thus, some Washington circles thought, the lumber strike might bring a show-down on the administration's determination to end work stoppages hampering defense production.

President B. M. Norton of the International Woodworkers of America came from Seattle to Washington today to confer with board officials. Prior to the meeting there was no indication that the union had receded from its original demands against 52 logging and sawmill operations in the Puget Sound area.

Seventy thousand Chrysler Corporation workers at Detroit won wage increases and bonuses totaling $15,000,000 last night, subject to ratification at meetings of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) membership.

The agreement, accepted by UAW leaders, calls for an eight cent hourly wage boost and payment bonus in December to workers with one year seniority. The old bonus was $40, and Chrysler spokesmen noted the bonus increase substituted for vacations with pay in 1942.

The wage gain, added to a two-cent boost last November, was made retroactive to June 1. Corporation officials said the base prior to June 1 was 80 cents an hour.

A mediation board appeal to "show their patriotism" prompted the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council at San Francisco to ask its members last night to return to work at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. The council action, however, did not end an AFL machinists' strike against Bethlehem.

nor did it affect the AFL and CIO machinists' work stoppage in ten other bay area shipyards holding $500,000,000 in defense orders.

Clarence A. Dykstra, board chairman, asked the Bethlehem management and union in telegrams yesterday to resume operations pending a hearing June 9 in Washington. The union council last (Turn To Page Nine)

VICKEY CABINET CONSIDERS LATE DEVELOPMENTS

Vichy, France, June 3.—(P)—Chief of State Marshal Petain called an urgent cabinet meeting late this afternoon, the second of the day, after a conference with General Maxime Weygand, chief of France's African forces.

At the earlier cabinet meeting, which lasted for two hours and was said to have been devoted to discussion of tense French-British relations, Weygand was present, but the marshal was not.

From this earlier session Weygand, Petain's African pro-consul, was understood to have gone straight to the marshal, who immediately called the second meeting.

The Beirut French-controlled radio charged that the British were preparing an attack against Syria, as the French government held an unusually long meeting on what was reported to be the tense relations between France and her old ally Britain.

The radio said the British were campaigning with "false news" of German troop landings on France's near-eastern mandate.

French forces are ready to defend their territory and "know how to reply effectively," the broadcast said.

The fact that General Maxime Weygand, who technically is not a member of the government, was (Turn To Page Nine)

JUSTICE HUGHES IS RETIRING

Eleventh Man in History to Serve as Chief Justice of The United States, to Relinquish His High Office July First and Return To Private Life Because Of "Consideration of Health and Age"

RESIGNATION LETTER GOES TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, June 3.—(P)—Charles Evans Hughes, eleventh man in history to serve as chief justice of the United States, will relinquish his high office July 1 and retire to private life because of "considerations of health and age."

The decision of the 79-year-old jurist to retire marks the end of supreme court service that has covered 19 years—first as associate and later as chief justice. It also closes a career in public life that has been unusually varied and distinguished.

As soon as the chief justice's intention became known, speculation here fastened on the question of his successor. Informed sources freely and almost unanimously predicted that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, a leading administration figure, would be President Roosevelt's choice to succeed Hughes in the nation's highest judicial position.

By filling this vacancy and an earlier one that has existed since retirement of Justice James C. McReynolds last Feb. 1, President Roosevelt will have named seven of the nine members of the tribunal. Senator Byrnes (D-SC), upon whom the administration relies heavily in pushing legislation through congress, is expected to be the other appointee.

Chief Justice Hughes sent his retirement letter to the White House yesterday before mounting the bench to preside over the court for its last session until next October 6.

Although no one knew then of the letter, spectators noticed that the jurist did not show his customary vigor. They thought later this might have been due to his sadness in taking leave of the position he has held since 1930.

"Considerations of health and age make it necessary that I should be relieved of the duties which I have been discharging with increasing difficulty," the chief justice wrote to Mr. Roosevelt.

The text of the letter was telephoned from Washington to the offices of the temporary White House in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a few miles from Hyde Park, and delivered to Mr. Roosevelt at the estate.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote out the telegram of reply in longhand. The news, he said, came "as a great shock" because he had counted on the chief justice's continuing his "splendid service for many years to come."

Since recovering from an illness in the summer of 1939, Hughes had strictly conserved his energy for his judicial duties. He rarely accepted engagements.

The illness of Mrs. Hughes the past few months also contributed to his decision to leave the bench, it was said unofficially. She has wanted him to devote his remaining days to relaxation and travel.

They plan to remain in Washington the remainder of this month then, if Mrs. Hughes is (Turn To Page Nine)

London, June 3.—(P)—Rashid Ali al Ghalib, fugitive anti-British premier of Iraq, arrived last night at Teheran, capital of Iran (Persia), a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from that city said today.

Harrisburg, June 3.—(P)—The "barnard" issue of the 1941 legislature went to Governor James today with passage by the senate of a house-approved bill barring women—except the wives of proprietors—from tending bar.

Lancaster, June 3.—(P)—Reuben King, 22-year-old Amish farmer, was arrested today by a deputy U. S. marshal on a warrant charging him with failure to report for military service.

London, June 3.—(P)—The government announced today the appointment of Sir Gerald Campbell, minister to Washington, as director-general of all British information.

Seal With Three Degrees Has Star Billing in Circus

Buddy, versatile performing seal of Russell Bros' Circus, keeps pace of the day's news with his trainer, Walter Jenner.

Buddy the Seal, A.B. M.A., Ph.D., just got to show what a success a fellow can be despite a college education.

Buddy, who will be seen with Russell Bros' Greater American Circus at the Old Brewery Circus Grounds, Warren, Monday, June 3, is a graduate magna cum laude of the famous Jenner Seal College at Kingston, N. Y., where all the better performing seals get their schooling. That alphabet after his name hasn't turned Buddy's head a bit. What might be construed as a snooty manner comes from the deft way he has of balancing things on his nose.

Taking up Buddy's degrees in order—A.B. in Seal College terminology means "Artist of Balance". In such advanced accomplishments as walking the tight wire, going up and down stairs on his front fins, and balancing on one fin, Buddy has no equal.

M.A. is for "Master of Articulation." Buddy is without doubt the most articulate seal ever before the public. Not only does he give justly voice to the Seal College yell, but he carries on conversations with his mentor and imitates famous personages.

"Doctor of Philharmonics" is what the Ph.D. behind Buddy's name stands for. Other seals there have been that play musical horns, but none with the virtuosity that Buddy displays.

Strictly speaking, Buddy isn't a seal at all, but a sea lion, being a native of the waters off Catalina Island. He and the prey of his alma mater, Walter Jenner, have been with Russell Bros' Circus here.

Sharing honors with some of the circusdom's most celebrated features, Buddy will be seen in afternoon and night performances, starting at 2 and 8 p. m., with doors opening at 1 and 7.

What might be construed as a snooty manner comes from the deft way he has of balancing things on his nose.

Taking up Buddy's degrees in order—A.B. in Seal College terminology means "Artist of Balance". In such advanced accomplishments as walking the tight wire, going up and down stairs on his front fins, and balancing on one fin, Buddy has no equal.

M.A. is for "Master of Articulation." Buddy is without doubt the most articulate seal ever before the public. Not only does he give lusty voice to the Seal College yell, but he carries on conversations with his mentor and imitates famous personages.

"Doctor of Philharmonics" is what the Ph.D. behind Buddy's name stands for. Other seals there have been that play musical horns, but none with the virtuosity that Buddy displays.

Strictly speaking, Buddy isn't a seal at all, but a sea lion, being a native of the waters off Catalina Island. He and the prexy of his alma mater, Walter Jenner, have been with Russell Bros' Circus before. They are back this season by popular demand after a round of Sportsmen's Shows in leading cities during the winter.

Sharing honors with some of circudom's most celebrated features, Buddy will be seen in afternoon and night performances, starting at 2 and 8 p. m., with doors opening at 1 and 7.

AROUND NEW YORK

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Vladimir Horowitz, the Russian pianist who allied himself to greatness by marrying Toscanini's daughter, thinks his grammar is improving so rapidly that "I will be a real American in a couple of years."

The slender, nervous artist then declared, "I hope to have my grammar beyond the criticisms of even my small daughter, Sonia, who is a harsh critic at times."

Sonia Horowitz speaks English, French, Italian as well as Russian, and she seldom misses an opportunity to chide her papa about his grammatical slips.

Horowitz became conscious of his English shortcomings on his first introduction to President Roosevelt. Cried he to FDR on that occasion, "I am delightful."

That was a couple of years ago, and Horowitz had just come in under the quota. Now his first papers are out and in another two years and a half he hopes to become "a real American."

A amateur photographers get many fine studies of birdlife in this fashion. There is a shooshie boy at 6th avenue and 47th street who waited three days for a pigeon to perch on the shoulder of a headless dummy. It seemed to him that it would make a good picture, but he confessed to me that he was disappointed with it after he got it.

Many of these feed-salesmen leave their gunnysacks of grain right out on the sidewalk where the more venturesome of the pigeons and sparrows could have free meals if it weren't for the cats. The cats make a practice of sleeping on top of the bags. They have learned that these bags make good hunting grounds.

INTERESTING is that huge throat of bronze the famed mechanics bell, on display at the Webb Institute of Naval Architecture in the Bronx. It weighs more than 900 pounds. It is treasured as a sort of symbol of the rights of labor, because once it stood at Stanton and Goerck streets, near the shipyards and clamored out the end of the "ten hour day" to the ship builders across the way. This was in direct violation of the law which stipulated that working days began at "dawn."

And lasted until "dark." After social changes arrived at that point where "masters and men stood on an equal footing," the bell was placed in the Webb Institute, where it has hung for the last 44 years. Anyone who cares to see it may exercise that privilege on any day of the week with the exception of Sunday.

A GREAT summer industry in New York, comparable to the chestnuts in winter, is the pigeon-feeder stands along Sixth avenue in midtown and around Bowling Green and the Battery. For five cents one is provided with a bag of mixed grain, some of it corn, and if you stand on the curb and sprinkle a handful around you it will require only a moment or so before you are engulfed with pigeons and sparrows who are so tame as to eat out of one's hand.

This was in direct violation of the law which stipulated that working days began at "dawn."

And lasted until "dark." After social changes arrived at that point where "masters and men stood on an equal footing," the bell was placed in the Webb Institute, where it has hung for the last 44 years. Anyone who cares to see it may exercise that privilege on any day of the week with the exception of Sunday.

A GREAT summer industry in New York, comparable to the chestnuts in winter, is the pigeon-feeder stands along Sixth avenue in midtown and around Bowling Green and the Battery. For five cents one is provided with a bag of mixed grain, some of it corn, and if you stand on the curb and sprinkle a handful around you it will require only a moment or so before you are engulfed with pigeons and sparrows who are so tame as to eat out of one's hand.

A amateur photographers get many fine studies of birdlife in this fashion. There is a shooshie boy at 6th avenue and 47th street who waited three days for a pigeon to perch on the shoulder of a headless dummy. It seemed to him that it would make a good picture, but he confessed to me that he was disappointed with it after he got it.

Many of these feed-salesmen leave their gunnysacks of grain right out on the sidewalk where the more venturesome of the pigeons and sparrows could have free meals if it weren't for the cats. The cats make a practice of sleeping on top of the bags. They have learned that these bags make good hunting grounds.

INTERESTING is that huge throat of bronze the famed mechanics bell, on display at the Webb Institute of Naval Architecture in the Bronx. It weighs more than 900 pounds. It is treasured as a sort of symbol of the rights of labor, because once it stood at Stanton and Goerck streets, near the shipyards and clamored out the end of the "ten hour day" to the ship builders across the way. This was in direct violation of the law which stipulated that working days began at "dawn."

THE ANSWER TO CRETE

"Now that the witches' Sabbath on Crete is ended," says Fred Vanderschmidt, a member of the staff of foreign writers employed by the Associated Press. "It is possible to get this unnatural and lopsided victory of the Nazi air arm and its fright-power into focus."

He is of the opinion that Crete's military value to the Axis is, primarily the elimination of one eastern-Mediterranean safety zone for the British fleet. The island also has been called, with some degree of accuracy, a stepping stone to the Near East.

The situation resulting from the British surrender of Crete is sized up by Vanderschmidt in the following manner:

"It was not necessary, however, for the Nazis to squander men and equipment in the grotesque air-borne invasion just concluded, just in order to make Crete untenable for the fleet. Dive bombers have demonstrated they could have done that alone.

"Moreover, if Crete is a stepping stone to the Near-East, it must be remembered that there are long steps in between—it is 350 miles to Cyprus, the British island which has been talked about as the next spot for invasion, and Cyprus is nearly 100 miles from Syria. In this big blue expanse of sea there is plenty of room for the British fleet to make its striking power felt, so long as Alexandria stands as a base.

"More significant and even more obvious is the fact that Hitler, in order to employ his full fury on Crete, loosened the tentative grip he had on the Near East itself, by deserting his puppet in Iraq after giving him ineffective air support.

"Thus if we look hard we can see the picture of the Nazis retreating for the first time from a country which they have occupied, at least politically and aeronautically, while in the same moment they send chills down the world's back by the nightmare conquest of a mid-Mediterranean island somewhat more extensive than Long Island.

"The British loss of men on Crete was proportionately heavy; perhaps from one-third to one-half of the total British-Greek force must be considered dead, wounded or captured. The loss in warships was even more severe, especially since it coincided with the destruction of H. M. S. Hood in the Atlantic.

"But the German loss of men was certainly as heavy as that of the defenders, and the loss of German planes considerable. Yet in proportion to the stupendous total of men involved in this whole war the man-power loss is not a matter of great military consequence; it serves mainly to emphasize that the big battles are yet to be fought. And no one who read the list of warships which Britain summoned to catch and kill the Bismarck can believe that the Royal Navy is a goner.

"The answer to Crete, then, is that this was not a strictly military campaign at all. It was cannily designed to strike chill fear into the hearts of the British on their own island, so close to Nazi shores; to cow and terrify the Turks, so deftly encircled, and—perhaps this should be stated first—to amaze and awe the western world and make hesitant the hand that helps the British.

"Not a bit of this is lost on the Turks, who already have the Nazi panzers on their land frontier and, knowing full well that Hitler never takes unnecessary risks, are not fooled into thinking that he will gracefully bypass their firm land bridge to Asia Minor if he can cudge them into letting him walk across it.

"On the other hand the Turks can see that Britain stands again in control of the head of the road to Baghdad, Turkey's remaining land route to the non-totalitarian world. On her part, Britain is certain to do everything possible to keep that hold."

Spring Creek, Warren county, is boosted back into the spotlight through the announcement of the retirement of Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes and subsequent reports that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, may be named as his successor on the bench. Better begin preserving that house where "Bob" was born to be converted into a shrine.

Justice Hughes is retiring at 79 is a poker compared to Judge D. U. Arnd who is in his 91st year. Must be something about the Warren county air.

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

Washington, June 3.—Behind Selective Service headquarters are concentrated in this competition for farm labor supply is felt most keenly. If you want that area roughly bounded, it's the triangle starting in Minnesota, extending eastward through New England, down the Atlantic to North Carolina, then diagonally northwest back to Minnesota. Elsewhere pick out the location of an army camp or a defense plant and you'll find labor flocking in to get the higher wages.

This decrease in the farm labor surplus has been reported as high as 20 per cent from the automobile manufacturing area of southeastern Michigan and along the lakes to Buffalo. Another sharp decline was in the Philadelphia-Wilmington area. Elsewhere, migrant labor has appeared and in some sections there has been a definite indication that a shortage of farm labor, if it develops further, would be met by increased use of farm machinery.

One other factor that has complicated the farm labor situation has been a misunderstanding about selective service registrations. A majority of the six million farms in the United States are still family sized farms. Sons help their fathers on these farms and gradually take over their operation. As these sons appear for draft registration, however, instead of claiming deferment on the grounds of occupational deferment. Draft boards have rushed these farm boys right into the service, leaving the farms without competent help. That's one of the errors the draft boards are now being asked to correct.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Sixty Years a Monarchy Observed by Rumanians

DOMINATED today by Nazis, Rumanian patriots this year are observing the 60th anniversary of their nation's recognition as a monarchy. The monarchy was recognized in 1881, three years after Rumania achieved independence and 15 years after King Carol I became ruler.

The first king of Rumania, grandfather of Carol II, who recently took flight from his homeland and found refuge in the Western Hemisphere, is pictured on the stamp above, issued as part of a commemorative series in 1938. The series of 14 stamps was issued in observance of the 100th anniversary of Carol I's birth.

Rumania was founded in 1861 from the two ancient principalities of Wallachia and Moldavia, both under Turkish sovereignty. For five years, Rumania was ruled by Prince Alexander John Cuza, who was finally forced to abdicate because of his despotism and to make way for the Hohenzollern Prince Charles, who became King Carol I.

Traditionally a part of Balkan turmoil, Rumania again finds itself dragged into World War II, although the country has not yet become an active participant.

In 1931
For some unexplained reason water in the Brokenstraw creek in the vicinity of Youngsville is almost black today, leading to the suspicion that it has been contaminated from some source. Persons should not bathe in it.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Answering the Mail Orders:
N. F. Lynn, Mass.—There are more than 30 hours a day of short-wave broadcasting from foreign countries to the United States and, according to the Federal Communications Commission, practically all of it might be defined as "propaganda." Some of it, of course, is entertainment. The time given to these broadcasts by countries at war are Italy, 4 hours; Japan 4 1/2; Great Britain 6 1/2 and Germany, 11. There are also broadcasts from the Soviet Union, Australia and about 15 other countries.
Tommy T. Springfield, O.—National Aeronautic association officials here tell me that while the shortage in model airplane materials and motors is threatened, it is not yet a fact. Even if there are hundreds of thousands of model airplane builders in the country, the amount of aluminum, duraluminum, bronze, rubber and balsa wood used is just a tiny fraction of production. And association officials say steps are being taken to safeguard that on the grounds the model airplane building and flying are the first steps toward producing good mechanics, flyers and airplane builders.
Mrs. B. F. Evansville, Ind.—Unofficial observers here and one very official one (Secretary of State Hull) don't give any credence to the report that our interest in or attitude toward Martinique has changed in the least. Martinique has a wonderful harbor, but its mountains and its dense and almost impenetrable island forests are to blame for its little use as an air base. We have bases 20 miles to the south (Santa Lucia) and 150 miles to the north (Antigua). So it is considered likely here that it would only become important to us if an enemy power tried to use it as a base. By the way, some popular person once referred to Martinique as the "Tragic Isle." In about 300 years, it has had 33 bad hurricanes, seven earthquakes, a volcanic eruption which killed 40,000 people (Mont Pelee, in 1902), 11 storms with devastating tidal waves, two famines, one drought, and 19 wars.
S. R. F. San Francisco, Calif.—You are right and I was wrong. The resident commissioner of the Philippines is the only one of the four U. S. territorial representatives in Washington who is appointed — not elected. Digging into it a little further, I found that this wasn't the only thing that distinguished Joaquin M. Elizalde from his three colleagues. Congress appropriates money for stationery for all members, for the delegates from Hawaii and Alaska and the Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico — but not for Mr. Elizalde. It appropriates money for mileage (transportation to and from home at the beginning and end of sessions), for certain funeral expenses, for clerk hire—but not for Mr. Elizalde.
(When Congress recently put $50 worth of air mail stamps for each member into the budget, it left out Mr. Elizalde. Congress doesn't even pay Mr. Elizalde's salary! The reason for this is that when legislation was enacted to help the Philippines toward economic independence, it was decided to place export taxes on Philippine coconut oil and sugar. This is paid by consumers in the United States and the sum paid (estimated at about $50,000,000 a year) by one expert on the islands) is turned back to the Philippine government through the Philippine government's own other things, pays all the expenses and emoluments to its resident commissioner, which otherwise would be paid out of the annual legislative branch appropriations. The payments are made through the Interior Department, which has jurisdiction over our insular possessions.)

Spring Creek, Warren county, is boosted back into the spotlight through the announcement of the retirement of Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes and subsequent reports that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, may be named as his successor on the bench. Better begin preserving that house where "Bob" was born to be converted into a shrine.

Justice Hughes in retiring at 79 is a piker compared to Judge D. U. Arid who is in his 91st year. Must be something about the Warren county air.

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

Washington, June 3—Behind Selective Service headquarters in instructions to local draft boards to give full consideration to requests of farm workers for deferred classification on account of occupation, there is an interesting story of what's happening to the supply and demand for agricultural manpower.

In the first place, there isn't any general shortage of farm labor. The scare reports to that effect are not only premature but also exaggerated. There are spotty dislocations, the wages paid to farm labor have arisen since the first of the year, but there has been ample farm labor to plant all crops and to harvest the early fruit and garden truck. The situation varies so much from county to county, however, that any attempts to generalize quickly resolve themselves into absurdities.

Attention was focused on this situation the other day by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard's letter to General Lewis B. Hershey at draft headquarters. This letter was pretty generally misinterpreted. While it pointed out there had been a reduction in farm labor supply, it also pointed out there had been large surpluses of farm labor. What had been cut down was the surplus. With the surplus reduced, the wage of the available supply had gone up.

Latest quarterly report from Agricultural Marketing Service estimates that the wage of farm labor was up an average of 15 cents a day over a year ago, with a top of $2.15 without board in Rhode Island and Connecticut and a national average of $1.70 a day without board. Naturally, when farm labor prices started going up, farmers began to mention it, unfavorably.

Sixty Years a Monarchy Observed by Rumanians

DOMINATED today by Nazis, Rumanian patriots this year are observing the 60th anniversary of their nation's recognition as a monarchy. The monarchy was recognized in 1881, three years after Rumania achieved independence and 15 years after King Carol I became ruler.

The first king of Rumania, grandfather of Carol II, who recently took flight from his homeland and found refuge in the Western Hemisphere, is pictured on the stamp above, issued as part of a commemorative series in 1938. The series of 14 stamps was issued in observance of the 100th anniversary of Carol I's birth.

Rumania was founded in 1861 from the two ancient principalities of Wallachia and Moldavia, both under Turkish sovereignty. For five years, Rumania was ruled by Prince Alexander John Cuza, who was finally forced to abdicate because of his despotism and to make way for the Hohenzollern Prince Charles, who became King Carol I.

Traditionally a part of Balkan turmoil, Rumania again finds itself dragged into World War II, although the country has not yet become an active participant.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Answering the Mail Orders:

N. F. Lynn, Mass.—There are more than 30 hours a day of short-wave broadcasting from foreign countries to the United States, and according to the Federal Communications Commission, practically all of it might be defined as "propaganda." Some of it, of course, is entertainment. The time given to these broadcasts by countries at war are Italy, 4 hours; Japan 4½; Great Britain 6½ and Germany, 11. There are also broadcasts from the Soviet Union, Australia and about 15 other countries.

Tommy T. Springfield, O. — National Aeronautic association officials here tell me that while the shortage in model airplane materials and motors is threatened, it is not yet a fact. Even if there are hundreds of thousands of model airplane builders in the country, the amount of aluminum, duraluminum, bronze, rubber and balsa wood used is just a tiny fraction of production. And association officials say steps are being taken to safeguard that on the grounds that model airplane building and flying are the first steps toward producing good mechanics, flyers and airplane builders.

Mrs. B. F. Evansville, Ind. — Unofficial observers here and one very official one (Secretary of State Hull) don't give any credence to the report that our interference in or attitude toward Martinique has changed in the least. Martinique has a wonderful harbor, but its mountains and its dense and almost impenetrable inland forests are said to make it of little use as an air base. We have bases 20 miles to the south (Santa Lucia) and 150 miles to the north (Antigua). So it is considered likely here that it would only become important to use it as an enemy power tried to use it as a base. By the way, some poetic person once referred to Martinique as the "Tragic Isle." In about 300 years, it has had 33 bad hurricanes, seven earthquakes, a volcanic eruption which killed 40,000 people (Mont Pelee, in 1902), 11 storms with devastating tidal waves, two famines, one drought, and 19 wars.

S. R. F., San Francisco, Calif.—You are right and I was wrong. The resident commissioner of the Philippines is the only one of the four U. S. territorial representatives in Washington who is appointed — not elected. Digging into it a little further, I found that this wasn't the only thing that distinguishes Joaquin M. Elizalde from his three colleagues.

Congress appropriates money for stationery for all members, for the delegates from Hawaii and Alaska and the Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico — but not for Mr. Elizalde. It appropriates money for mileage (transportation to and from home at the beginning and end of sessions), for certain funeral expenses, for clerk hire—but not for Mr. Elizalde.

When Congress recently put $50 worth of air mail stamps for each member into the budget, it left out Mr. Elizalde. Congress doesn't even pay Mr. Elizalde's salary! The reason for this is that when legislation was enacted to help the Philippines toward economic independence, it was decided to place excise taxes on Philippine coconut oil and sugar. This is paid by consumers in the United States and the sum paid (estimated at about $50,000,000 a year by one expert on the islands) is turned back to the Philippines. In return for this, the Philippine government, among other things, pays all the expenses and emoluments to its resident commissioner, which otherwise would be paid out of the annual legislative branch appropriations. The payments are made through the Interior Department, which has jurisdiction over our insular possessions.

SOWING OF TREE SEEDS FINISHED BY STATE DEPT.

Harrisburg, June 3.—The sowing of 1799 pounds of forest tree seeds in the state forest nurseries during the spring of 1941 has been completed, according to a statement issued by W. E. Montgomery, Chief of Division of Forest Management in the Department of Forests and Waters. Red pine, black locust, white pine, Japanese larch, hemlock, white spruce, Banks pine, pitch pine, and Norway spruce are the kinds of trees which will be produced from this quantity of seed.

In addition to this amount, 3176 pounds of seed of hardwood species, consisting of white ash, red oak, sugar maple and hickory were sown last fall. During this season, 2189 bushels of black walnut and 338 pounds of coniferous seed were also planted.

A total of 2,250,000 seedlings of red pine, white pine, Norway spruce and white spruce have been transplanted in the nurseries during the current spring. Two-year seedlings are placed in transplant beds where they remain for two or three years. These transplants are not always taller than the young seedlings but have a better root system and a more stocky form, which enables the trees to resist unfavorable factors such as weeds on the planting site.

The number of seedlings produced from a pound of seed depends on the size and germination percent of the seed. A pound of Banks pine seed will usually produce 17,300 seedlings, while one pound of pitch pine yields 13,000 small trees. One pound of red pine seed produces 6200 seedlings while a similar quantity of white pine furnishes 5500 trees. A bushel of black walnuts yields 400 trees and one bushel of red oak acorns produces about 2000 seedlings.

Mr. Montgomery points out that the state forest nursery production plan provides for an annual output of at least 15,000,000 usable seedlings and transplants. If planted six feet apart this number will cover an area of 12,387 acres. The Dept. operates forest tree nurseries at Clearfield, Mont Alto, Potter's Mills and Greenwood Furnace. The supplying of trees by the state for ornamental or shade purposes to private individuals is forbidden by law. Likewise, fruit, huckleberry, and nut tree for orchard planting are not sold by the department.

TWO LIVES ARE LOST IN WOODS FIRES IN STATE

Harrisburg, June 3.—The loss of two lives, construction of a county church, a roadside gas station, houses, barns, private tree plantations, between 45,000 and 50,000 acres of burned-over forest land and extinction costs of approximately $60,000 are Pennsylvania's toll for the spring forest fire season, according to George H. Wirt, chief, division of forest protection in the Department of Forests and Waters.

Considering the fact that 99 percent of the 3000 forest fires this spring were preventable through the exercise of ordinary care, the loss of life, property and the devastation of land are exhibits of extreme carelessness on the part of many of our citizens.

Mr. Wirt points out that the prevention of forest fires cannot be accomplished by the department alone but by civic and industrial agencies acting separately. The organized cooperation of organizations and individuals is necessary.

The fact that the average area burned-over by each fire this spring has been less than 20 acres, evidences the fact that the department's protection organization is functioning efficiently in the extinction of forest fires.

A single railroad engine, in one day set 43 fires in sections of two counties. Arrests have been made and prosecutions instituted for those responsible for forest fires in the following counties: Luzerne, Northumberland, Fayette, Centre, Westmoreland, Blair, Somerset, Monroe, Clinton and Allegheny.

Progress in the protection of forests from fires depends not only upon quick detection and suppression of the fires that occur, but the prevention of fires is the most important part of the protection program. Special attention is now being given by the department to this phase of protection. Studies of hazardous fire conditions—danger zones where fires are likely to occur are being made in the different forest districts, in the hope that many fires may thus be prevented. More intensive inspections in the field, educational programs, conferences and cooperative agreements with public groups are other activities that are receiving attention.

SOWING OF TREE SEEDS FINISHED BY STATE DEPT.

Harrisburg, June 3—The sowing of 1799 pounds of forest tree seeds in the state forest nurseries during the spring of 1941 has been completed, according to a statement issued by W. E. Montgomery, Chief of Division of Forest Management in the Department of Forests and Waters. Red pine, black locust, white pine, Japanese larch, hemlock, white spruce, Banks pine, pitch pine, and Norway spruce are the kinds of trees which will be produced from this quantity of seed.

In addition to this amount, 3176 pounds of seed of hardwood species, consisting of white ash, red oak, sugar maple and hickory were sown last fall. During this season, 2189 bushels of black walnut and 388 pounds of coniferous seed were also planted.

A total of 2,250,000 seedlings of red pine, white pine, Norway spruce and white spruce have been transplanted in the nurseries during the current spring. Two-year seedlings are placed in transplant beds where they remain for two or three years. These transplants are not always taller than the young seedlings but have a better root system and a more stocky form, which enables the trees to resist unfavorable factors, such as weeds on the planting site.

The number of seedlings produced from a pound of seed depends on the size and germination percent of the seed. A pound of Banks pine seed will usually produce 17,300 seedlings, while one pound of pitch pine yields 13,000 small trees. One pound of red pine seed produces 6200 seedlings while a similar quantity of white pine furnishes 5500 trees. A bushel of black walnuts yields 400 trees and one bushel of red oak acorns produces about 2000 seedlings.

Mr. Montgomery points out that the state forest nursery production plan provides for an annual output of at least 15,000,000 usable seedlings and transplants. If planted six feet apart this number will cover an area of 12,397 acres. The Dept. operates forest tree nurseries at Clearfield, Mont Alto, Potter's Mills and Greenwood Furnace. The supplying of trees by the state for ornamental or shade purposes to private individuals is forbidden by law. Likewise, fruit, mulberry, and nut tree for orchard planting are not sold by the department.

TWO LIVES ARE LOST IN WOODS FIRES IN STATE

Harrisburg, June 3—The loss of two lives, compensation for accidents, the destruction of a country church, a roadside gas station, houses, barns, private tree plantations, between 45,000 and 50,000 acres of burned-over forest land and extinction costs of approximately $60,000 are Pennsylvania's toll for the spring forest fire season, according to George H. Wirt, chief, division of forest protection in the Department of Forests and Waters.

Considering the fact that 99 per cent of the 3000 forest fires this spring were preventable through the exercise of ordinary care, the loss of life, property and the devastation of land are exhibits of extreme carelessness on the part of many of our citizens.

Mr. Wirt points out that the prevention of forest fires cannot be accomplished by the department alone nor by civic and industrial agencies acting separately. The organized cooperation of organizations and individuals is necessary.

The fact that the average area burned-over by each fire this spring has been less than 20 acres, evidences the fact that the department's protection organization is functioning efficiently in the extinction of forest fires.

A single railroad engine, in one day set 43 fires in sections of two counties. Arrests have been made and prosecutions instituted of those responsible for forest fires in the following counties: Luzerne, Northumberland, Fayette, Centre, Westmoreland, Blair, Somerset, Monroe, Clinton and Allegheny.

Progress in the protection of forests from fires depends not only upon quick detection and suppression of the fires that occur, but the prevention of fires is the most important part of the protection program. Special attention is now being given by the department to this phase of protection. Studies of hazardous fire conditions—danger zones where fires are likely to occur are being made in the different forest districts, in the hope that many fires may thus be prevented. More intensive inspections in the field, educational programs, conferences and cooperative agreements with public groups are other activities that are receiving attention.

Officials and Friends Honor Judge Arrid On Occasion of His 90th Birthday Anniversary

Honoring Judge D. U. Arrid on the occasion of his 90th birthday anniversary, which he observed last Saturday, a crowd of 80 friends, including county officials, court house employees, members of the Warren County Bar Association, with their ladies gathered at the Y. W. C. A. for a building last evening for a banquet.

The arrangements were in charge of a committee composed of Prothonotary Addison White, Court Stenographer Alta Lund, Register and Recorder O. E. Lopez, Miss Reeder of the sheriff's office, County Treasurer Allan Gieson, as chairman, and Attorney R. P. Eaton representing the bar association.

After the delicious roast chicken dinner, popular songs were enjoyed, opening with "Happy Birthday D. U.," and including such numbers as "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and "The Bells of St. Marys." Mr. White was in charge of this part of the program, with Attorney Eaton at the piano.

Mr. Gibson, master of ceremonies, greeted the honor guest by expressing the pleasure of all in being present to welcome the judge on his 90th birthday anniversary. He then called upon Attorney E. H. Beshlin, who after a few appropriate remarks presented Mr. Arrid with a gift on behalf of those present.

Mr. Beshlin, in a very interesting manner, recalled some humorous events that occurred during the early years of the county bar association and its members mentioning particularly Mr. Arrid's connection with the law firm of Ball and Thompson. He closed by quoting a poem written by Henry VanDyke. On presenting the gift Mr. Beshlin expressed on behalf of the assemblage "best wishes for still many more years of health contentment and peace."

JUDGE D. U. ARRID

Mr. Arrid responded in his usual popular manner, recalling among other things that when he first ran for judge in 1921 "they said I was too old," and when he ran again in 1931 "they said I was too darn old." He said that he had spent about 60 years of his life in court houses, the greater part of which was in court rooms. He was first elected to public office, he said, when he became prothonotary and clerk of courts in 1885.

He expressed appreciation for whole-hearted cooperation received from all county officers during his term as judge, declaring that it always has been 100 per cent. After calling upon Miss Alice M. Meade to say a few remarks, Judge Arrid concluded by saying "I wish you all possible success and happiness you could possibly wish for yourselves."

Officials and Friends Honor Judge Arird On Occasion of His 90th Birthday Anniversary

Honoring Judge D. U. Arird on the occasion of his 90th birthday anniversary, which he observed last Saturday, a crowd of 80 friends, including county officials, court house employees, members of the Warren County Bar Association, with their ladies, gathered at the Y. W. C. A. activities building last evening for a banquet.

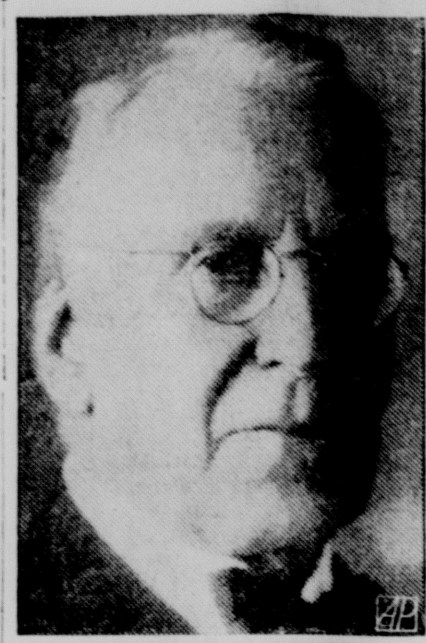

The arrangements were in charge of a committee composed of Prothonotary Addison White, Court Stenographer Alta Lund, Register and Recorder O. E. Loper, Mina Reider, of the sheriff's office, County Treasurer Alvin Gibson, as chairman, and Attorney R. P. Eaton representing the bar association.

After the delicious roast chicken dinner, popular songs were enjoyed, opening with "Happy Birthday D. U.", and including such numbers as "Pack Up Your Troubles", "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and "The Bells of St. Marys". Mr. White was in charge of this part of the program with Attorney Eaton at the piano.

Mr. Gibson, as master of ceremonies, greeted the honor guests by expressing the pleasure of all in being present to welcome the judge on his 90th birthday anniversary. He then called upon Attorney E. H. Beshlin, who, after a few appropriate remarks, presented Mr. Arird with a gift on behalf of those present.

Mr. Beshlin, in a very interesting manner, recalled some humorous events that occurred during the early years of the county bar association and its members, mentioning particularly Mr. Arird's connection with the law firm of Ball and Thompson. He closed by quoting a poem written by Henry VanDyke. On presenting the gift Mr. Beshlin expressed on behalf of the assemblage "best wishes for still many more years of health, contentment and peace."

Mr. Arird responded in his usual health, contentment and peace."

Mr. Arird responded in his usual manner, recalling among other things that when he first ran for judge in 1921 "they said I was too old," and when he ran again in 1931 "they said I was too darn old." He said that he had spent about 60 years of his life in court houses, the greater part of which was in court rooms. He was first elected to public office, he said, when he became prothonotary and clerk of courts in 1885.

He expressed appreciation for whole-hearted cooperation received from all county officers during his terms as judge declaring that it always has been 100 per cent.

After calling upon Miss Alice M. Meade to say a few remarks, Judge Arird concluded by saying "I wish you all possible success and happiness you could possibly wish for yourselves."

The primary is September 9. While declining to say the Republicans would support both Justice Parker and Judge Kenworthy, James F. Torrance, the G. O. Judge Shull, in the announcement of his candidacy, referred to the death of Justice Barnes and declared his successor should be a Democrat.

The council also drafted a proposal to draft a "blue print" for use of highways in civilian evacuation. A five-man committee was chosen to draw the map of main and secondary roads in eastern Pennsylvania, with directions for their efficient use in an evacuation to avoid panic.

The council now is engaged in a census of trucks and buses to be used in the event of such an evacuation.

Gene Alden Walker Paints Portrait To Be Sent To College

A private showing of a recently completed portrait by Gene Alden Walker was attended by a number of interested persons on Sunday in the parish house of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church.

The painting, done from an old photograph, is of Cecilia Whipple, wife of Bishop Henry Baughman Whipple, famous for his missionary work among the Indians.

This year marks the 75th anniversary of the founding of Saint Mary's Hall, Episcopal school for girls, by Bishop and Mrs. Whipple, at Fairbault, Minn. The cathedral there is the first Protestant Episcopal church in the United States to have been built and used as a cathedral from the time of its opening. Fairbault has been called "The Athens of the Northwest" because of the number of schools located there.

Miss Margaret Robertson, of Warren, was appointed headmistress of Saint Mary's Hall in 1938. She reports a great celebration is to mark the 75th anniversary this coming weekend, when commencement activities will be attended by alumnae and friends from all parts of the country. The portrait of Mrs. Whipple will be hung at that time.

At Miss Robertson's request, Miss Walker is sending a group of paintings to Fairbault, among them a portrait of Mrs. Gail Hamilton, and "Spring Sunshine," a flower painting loaned by Mrs. C. J. Cravy.

Many attending Sunday's showing of the portrait also viewed for the first time an over-mantel decoration, "Gold-Banded Lilies," painted and presented to Trinity Memorial church by Miss Walker at Easter and now hung in the parish house.

Lou Gehrig, "Iron Horse" Of Baseball, Paralysis Victim

Baseball World In Mourning Over Loss Of Famous Yankee

BY JUDSON BAILEY
New York, June 3.—(P)—Lou Gehrig, the great "Iron Horse" of baseball, is dead.

The big, handsome fellow who was a marvel of power and endurance for 14 years as the first baseman of the New York Yankees died last night at his home in the Bronx after an illness of two years from a rare and apparently incurable disease described as hardening of the spinal cord which caused his muscles to shrivel.

The end came 17 days before Lou would have been 38 and wrote to a fight with disease that was as dramatic and courageous as any of his exploits on the diamond.

Right up until the time he fell into a coma yesterday afternoon Gehrig never acknowledged that he was licked.

But others knew that he was waging a losing fight and when death came his wife and close relatives were gathered at the bedside.

Arrangements were made for private funeral services at 9 a. m. (EST) tomorrow at the Christ Episcopal church in the Riverdale section of New York where Gehrig resided. The body will be cremated.

Gehrig's place among baseball's immortals was assured a year ago when he was voted into the sport's hall of fame. Before he voluntarily withdrew from the Yankee lineup May 2, 1939, at Detroit, he set a never approached record of playing in 2,130 consecutive championship games.

He started his streak as a pinch-hitter on June 1, 1925. The next day he replaced Wally Pipp at first base and never missed a game for 14 years.

He twice was named the most valuable player in the American League, led it in batting with .363 in 1934, set a major league record for batting in more than 100 runs a year for 13 years, set the American League mark of 184 runs batted in in 1931, hit a home run with bases loaded on 23 different times and once hit four homers in one game, feats never equalled.

The insidious illness that struck out Gehrig was diagnosed as "amyotrophic lateral sclerosis." Just when it entered his system never was known, but it may have been sometime in 1938 when his batting average dropped below .300 for the first time in 13 years.

It was not until he went to Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. two years ago this month that he knew anything was wrong physically. There he was told that he never could play baseball again and that he would have to have an injection in his back every day for what proved to be the remainder of his life. Even so he continued cheerful and hopefully remained with the ball club, in uniform, for the remainder of the 1939 season.

After the World Series in 1940, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia offered him a 10-year post on the city parole commission at a salary of $5,700, a modest stipend for a man who made in the neighborhood of $400,000 in his years on the diamond and reached a peak of $39,000, exclusive of World Series and other extras, in 1938.

Gehrig accepted immediately and was sworn in the following January after spending the winter reading and studying about parole. He devoted all his energy to this job, seldom going anywhere except to his office or to one of the city's institutions. He believed devoutly in the benefits of parole to society.

His health grew worse by degrees, even though he gave each bit of ground grudgingly. About a month ago his physician, Dr. C. R. Esselstyn, prevailed upon him to remain home and conserve his strength.

In this way, sitting by the hour at the window of his pretty home on a knoll right at the edge of the city, he faced the showdown. He ailed rapidly, losing considerable weight as the end neared, but to the few intimate friends who visited him he expressed confidence all the way.

He told President Edward G. Barrow of the Yankees on Friday night, "I'm sure I'm going to beat this."

When Barrow was summoned last night Gehrig was dead.

The only American president to die a bachelor was James Buchanan.

RECORD MAY BE MADE OVER NEW TEXAS COURSE

BY BILL BONI

Fort Worth, June 3.—(P)—Seven of the last eight U. S. Open Golf Championships, starting with Johnny Goodman's one-shot victory over Ralph Guldahl in 1933, have found the winner at most two strokes in front at the finish. The last two years, at Philadelphia in 1939, and Cleveland a year ago, there were ties at the end of 72 holes.

Gene Sarazen figured in that last one—he lost to Lawson Little in the play-off—and it's Sarazen who believes the 1941 tournament, starting Thursday over the Colonial Club Course, will put a stop to the neck-and-neck finishes.

"The man who wins this one is going to win it all by himself," says Sarazen, a two-time former winner who'll be playing in his 22nd consecutive open. "This course is such a fine one, but such a tough one, that I can't see more than one man scoring on it, and even he may not have to shoot sensational golf."

"Don't let anybody kid you about the trouble, you can get into around here. Get in that rough, or in one of those gullies, and you'll be taking a 6 instead of a 4 faster than you can decide on cream or lemon for your tea."

Gene, impressed by the way the Texans are staging their first big golfing show, thinks one of the Texas boys is likely to win. His own choice is Byron Nelson, betting co-favorite with Ben Hogan.

As for Gene himself, he has more than a hunch he'll be in there pitching. The hunch involves a sequence of 2's—his first Open title in 1922, his repeat in 1932, now his 22nd try.

This corner, conceding Sarazen's vast experience and knowledge, is holding out stubbornly against strong opposition which, taking the shape of complaints that Colonial's fairways are too narrow, voices itself in predictions that scoring will be high.

Come Saturday night we may look awfully bad, but we aren't swerving from the belief Colonial's par 70 is going to have its brains knocked out. Granted the fairways are narrow and that there's trouble outside them, we go on the theory that good pros are good because they can hit narrow fairways.

There are plenty of spots to pick up strokes. At least four holes play as drives and easy pitches.

The winner? Name your own poison. Maybe Henry Picard, who had a 71 the first time out. Maybe Nelson, though he's a bit rusty. Probably not Snead, who has a sore back and may not even start. Little just now doesn't look like a repeater, because he's struggling. Whoever it turns out to be, we think he'll bust 280, and 280 is a shot under Ralph Guldahl's championship record.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

"Heinie" Anderson and Joe Massa, two of Warren's favorite baseball sons, are playing with Mike Cannavino's Meadville Pioneers this season. Anderson, probably as good a shortstop as ever converted a ground ball into a putout in this section, has not been playing any ball for the last couple of years, but reports are to the effect that he is still just as fast as he used to be while playing with the Warren Indians a few years back. Massa, a strong batsman and a capable fielder, joined up with the Cannavino forces this year when the baseball urge hit him and when it was impossible for him to play around here. The Pioneers have played eight games to date, and boast victories for every one, Sunday they won a doubleheader from the Lindy-Victor All-Stars by scores of 6-2 and 7-0. The All-Stars meet Irvine at Wilder Field next Sunday, and a Forge-Meadville series or contest may be an outgrowth later in the season.

If there was a record left unbroken, we can't find it in high school baseball records. This year's team set so many new marks that the statistic sheet looks like a polka-dot dress. Plus going undefeated in 17 games, they chalked up the highest team batting average ever made, a neat .384, and Vic Huffman's .500 is tops for all-time individual honors, which probably will not soon be broken. It's been hit before, but not by a regular. Six starters ended with 400 also. And the team had 35 doubles, 19 triples and 9 home runs, all new records, and marks which won't be touched too soon, either. Dick Kifer hurled eight wins to set a new pitching record, and brought his scholastic total to 14 wins against one loss, with one year left to play, chalking up another mark. The team scored 234 runs and had 236 hits, both breaking previous highs, and that, we guess, is enough for one season.

Cards Beat Dodgers To Break Tie; Tribe Beats Yankees, 7-5

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

It was the talk of the major leagues last year that the Cincinnati Reds won 42 games by one-game margins and in doing it won the National League pennant and the world championship.

By the way things are going this season, that record may look puny before the finish. It took a total of three runs to return the St. Louis Cardinals and Cleveland Indians to first place in their respective leagues yesterday and that's just a sample of what's been going on.

To date, 21 of the Cardinals' 44 contests have been decided by single runs, with the Redbirds winning 15 of them, mostly in the late innings. The Indians have found two runs a more comfortable margin, either winning or losing, but they've had seven one-run decisions in their favor and six against them in 49 games.

The Cards broke their tie with Brooklyn yesterday by beating the Dodgers 5-4. The Indians, after losing two games to the Yankees, bounced back the way they usually do when Bob Feller is pitching, whipped the Yanks 7-5 and moved back to the top after spending a day behind the Philadelphia White Sox.

Some distance behind these leaders, the Reds and Boston Red Sox also moved up. The world champions turned back the New York Giants 4-3 and took fourth place in the National League by a few percentage points over the Chicago Cubs. The Red Sox, taking advantage of Philadelphia's rain-enforced idleness in St. Louis, moved a half game ahead of the A's into fourth with a 9-1 triumph over Detroit.

The White Sox, after reaching the top for the first time since 1921, succumbed 8-3 to Steve Sundra and the seventh-place Washington Senators.

Boston's Red Sox belted over the Tigers behind a four-hit hurling job by Joe Dobson. Jimmy Fox hit a homer with two aboard off Bobo Newsom's delivery in the first inning and Dobson socked the first round tripper of his career in the second to clinch the argument.

Fiddler Bill McGee, who has yet to win a game for the Giants, gave the Reds only four hits in 6-2-3 innings, but they were enough. Home runs by Eddie Joost and Ernie Lombardi accounted for three tallies and two walks followed by a clean single by Elmer Riddle, the Reds' pitcher, scored the winning run.

The Phillies aided the Reds' advance when they knocked off the Cubs for the first time this season, 3-2, on Johnny Podgajny's seven hit hurling and Danny Litwhiler's two homers. Dick Erickson shut the Boston Braves their first out-of-triumph of the campaign, stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-0, with five hits.

Disguised Nazis Pass Through Turkey to Syria

The assembly also approved short-term national defense savings bonds.

Ankara, Turkey, June 2.—(Delayed)—(P)—A dozen freighters flying swastika flags have been assigned to carry German troops and heavy military equipment from Rumanian ports to French Syria, it was reported here today, following up the landing of 500 men at Latakia last Thursday.

Sailing from the German-occupied stronghold of Constanta on the Black Sea, the ships were expected to stop briefly at Rhodes, in the Italian Dodecanese Islands, and continue by night to Latakia and Tripoli in an effort to thwart the British blockade.

The whole trip was expected to take something less than a week.

Vichy, Unoccupied France, June 3.—(P)—French officials in both Vichy and Beirut denied today foreign reports that German troops had occupied points in the French mandates of Syria or Lebanon.

Effort Made to Mediate Strike of Lumberjacks

A night named a committee of six to go to the capital.

Secretary of Labor Perkins referred the Bethlehem dispute to the mediation group yesterday. Previously federal agencies had maintained a "hands-off" policy in the shipyard tie-up, leaving peace maneuvers to AFL leaders, who called the walkout of 2,000 machinists an "outlaw strike."

The machinists seek $1.15 an hour instead of $1.12, and double pay for overtime.

Church Forces Ask Change in Old Blue Laws

(From Page One)

"This makes nothing illegal which is legal now, but it is up to the courts to determine who may be removed," Dr. Forney replied.

"Takes will take care of that," remarked Senator Frank W. Ruth (D-Berks), a minister.

Talks in favor of the increased fines were made also by the Rev. Charles Baldwin and Mrs. J. J. Moore, of Harrisburg. Mrs. Moore represented the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Bruce Craig, 27, Chicago, aviation engineer.

A spokesman for the Consolidated Aircraft Company said "evidence of sabotage" had been discovered, but neither he nor the FBI would discuss the matter further.

British purchasing agent F. C. Cooper said sabotage was a possibility as the craft was about ready to be turned over to the British. It was powered with four motors and had a bombing range of 3,000 miles.

Peace Officers Meeting at Erie

"The bond and so-called 'fifth columnists' x x x are not operating under those names. They have crept into some respectable societies and are using them for shields."

The F. B. I. agents will hold similar conferences in Bradford tomorrow and DuBois Thursday.

INJURED AT WORK

Charles Nuhfer, of Warren R. D. 1, aged 40, was admitted to the Warren General Hospital about 10:30 o'clock this morning for treatment of injuries received when he fell approximately 12 feet from a tank at the Warren Tank Car Company plant, where he is employed. X-rays are being taken to determine the extent of back and head injuries.

CANCEL DOUBLEHEADER

The doubleheader between the Lindy-Miles and National Forge baseball teams, which was scheduled for next Sunday afternoon at Irvine, has been canceled. The two teams may clash later in the season.

It was stated today by Business Manager Jimmy Kannan, of the Forge, Reason for cancellation was the failure of the New York team to strengthen their club this week after losing a doubleheader to Meadville, 6-2, 7-0, last Sunday.

Bulletins

Rome, June 3.—(P)—Italian troops were officially declared today to be mopping up their sections of Crete, and the high command said Axis planes raiding the British-held Libyan port of Tobruk sank a transport ship and damaged a munitions depot.

Tokyo, June 3.—(P)—Vital foodstuffs from Japan and Japanese-occupied China have been flowing into Germany via the Trans-Siberian railroad at the rate of 1,500 tons daily in recent months, reliable sources declared today.

London, June 3.—(P)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Baghdad said today that a new Iraqi government has been formed with Jamal al Midaif as premier. The majority of the ministers, Reuters said, have been known previously for their cooperation with the British.

Unofficial Turkish quarters said Germans in civilian clothes had passed through Turkey en route to Syria—a subterfuge Germany exploited in planting troops in Norway and other Nazi-conquered countries well ahead of the actual invasion forces.

Qualified observers in London predicted Prime Minister Churchill's war cabinet would declare the French mandates enemy-occupied territory to clear the way for full-scale British attack.

In other British quarters belief was expressed that the Vichy government, which has declared it would safeguard France's colonies if any cost would appeal soon to the Reich for German "protection" of her territories.

France's North African commander, Gen. Maxime Weygand, expert on Syrian defense, remained in Vichy for further talks with his government leaders.

German attacks on England overnight were described by the British as "small scale," but raiders were reported over the Midlands, industrial heart of England, and the northern counties.

Justice Hughes is retiring

able to travel, to go to the Canadian Rockies. This is one of the chief justice's favorite vacation spots.

Chief Justice Hughes presided over the Supreme Court during one of the most turbulent periods of its history.

The controversy started early in the Roosevelt administration when the tribunal delivered a number of decisions overturning important new deal legislation, such as the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Agricultural Act.

Differences between the court and the administration reached a climax in 1937 when Mr. Roosevelt proposed to Congress "new blood" be injected into the court by adding a member for each justice over 70 years and 6 months of age who did not retire.

The proposal precipitated a spectacular and acrimonious oratorical battle on Capitol Hill.

Hughes was widely credited with playing an important behind-the-scenes role in bringing about the ultimate defeat of the court reorganization plan. His public activity, however, was confined to a letter to the senate judiciary committee saying the plan "would not promote the efficiency of the court."

DEATH OF GERMAN ADMIRAL IS DENIED

Berlin, June 3.—(P)—Authorized Germans categorically denied today reports of the death of German Admiral Bohn and said stories current abroad regarding him were untrue.

Norwegian sources in London said Saturday that Admiral Bohn, described as the Nazi naval commander in chief in Norway and a friend of Rudolf Hess, recently committed suicide in Oslo after a visit from Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler.

Alaska's population of 72,524 includes 39,170 whites, 15,576 Eskimos, 11,268 Indians, 5,599 Aleuts, 263 Japanese, and 632 of unknown race, according to the 1940 Census.

The participants of the California gold rush of 1849 were known as "the forty-niners."

Warfare at Sea on Increase

to Britain's life-line of supplies, if true, the German High Command's figure for May still fell short of its April claim of 1,211,000 tons destroyed.

By contrast, the London Admiralty declared that British merchant shipping losses in April totaled only 488,124 tons—less than half the German figure.

In the war in the air, RAF night raiders spread "large fires" in an attack on Berlin, the London Air Ministry announced, and bombed the cities of Dusseldorf, Duisburg-Ruhrort and other targets in Germany's industrial Ruhr.

It was the 46th assault of the war on the Nazi capital.

Other British raiders struck at the docks of St.

Disguised Nazis Pass Through Turkey to Syria

The assembly also approved short-term national defense savings bonds.

Ankara, Turkey, June 2—(Delayed)—(P)—A dozen freighters flying swastika flags have been assigned to carry German troops and heavy military equipment from Rumanian ports to French Syria, it was reported here today, following the landing of 500 men at Latakia last Thursday.

Sailing from the German-occupied stronghold of Constanta on the Black Sea, the ships were expected to stop briefly at Rhodes, in the Italian Dodecanese Islands, and continue by night to Latakia and Tripoli in an effort to thwart the British blockade.

The whole trip was expected to take something less than a week.

Vichy, Unoccupied France, June 3—(P)—French officials in both Vichy and Beirut denied today foreign reports that German troops had occupied points in the French mandates of Syria or Lebanon.

London, June 3—(P)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Baghdad said today that a new Iraq government has been formed with Jamal al Mufid as premier. Reuters said, have been known previously for their cooperation with the British.

Tokyo, June 3—(P)—Vital foodstuffs from Japan and Japanese-occupied China have been flowing into Germany via the trans-Siberian railroad at the rate of 1,500 tons daily in recent months, reliable sources declared today.

London, June 3—(P)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Baghdad said today that a new Iraq government has been formed with Jamal al Mufid as premier. Reuters said, have been known previously for their cooperation with the British.

Unofficial Turkish quarters said Germans in civilian clothes had passed through Turkey en route to Syria—a subterfuge Germany exploited in planting troops in Norway and other Nazi-conquered countries well ahead of the actual invasion forces.

Qualified observers in London predicted Prime Minister Churchill's war cabinet would declare the French mandates enemy-occupied territory to clear the way for full-scale British attack.

In other British quarters belief was expressed that the Vichy government, which has declared it would safeguard France's colonies at any cost, would appeal soon to the Reich for German "protection" of her territories.

France's North African commander, Gen. Maxime Weygand, expert on Syrian defense, remained in Vichy for further talks with his government leaders.

German attacks on England overnight were described by the British as "small scale," but raiders were reported over the Midlands, industrial heart of England, and the northern counties.

able to travel, to go to the Canadian Rockies. This is one of the chief justice's favorite vacation spots.

Chief Justice Hughes presided over the Supreme Court during one of the most turbulent periods of its history.

The controversy started early in the Roosevelt administration when the tribunal delivered a number of decisions overturning important new deal legislation, such as the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Agricultural Act.

Differences between the court and the administration reached a climax in 1937 when Mr. Roosevelt proposed to "pack" the "new blood" be injected into the court by adding a member for each justice over 70 years and 6 months of age who did not retire.

The proposal precipitated a spectacular and acrimonious oratorical battle on Capitol Hill.

Hughes was widely credited with playing an important behind-the-scenes role in bringing about the ultimate defeat of the court reorganization plan. His public activity, however, was confined to a letter to the senate judiciary committee saying the plan "would not promote the efficiency of the court."

to Britain's life-line of supplies. If true, the German High Command's figure for May still fell short of its April claim of 1,211,000 tons destroyed.

By contrast, the London Admiralty declared that British merchant shipping losses in April totaled only 488,124 tons—less than half the German figure.

In the war in the air, RAF night raiders spread "large fires" in an attack on Berlin, the London Air Ministry announced, and bombed the cities of Dusseldorf, Duisburg-Ruhrort and other targets in Germany's industrial Ruhr.

It was the 46th assault of the War on the Nazi capital.

Other British raiders struck at the docks of St. Nazaire, German past these quarters said it was safe to assume that the conference would have clarifying and decisive results.

In the Middle East war theater, the race for strategic positions was reported shaping rapidly, with the next big battle apparently destined to flame in the French-ruled colonies of Syria and Lebanon, skirting the Mediterranean between Turkey and Palestine.

Both the Germans and French denied reports from Turkey that Nazi motorized troops had already landed at the Syrian port of Latakia, with a Berlin spokesman declaring:

"It is unthinkable that this corresponds to the facts."

Authoritative sources in Ankara, however, insisted that a Nazi contingent of more than 500 troops outfitted for desert fighting landed Thursday at Latakia.

CARE OF SUNBURN

BY PAUL BRAUNSCHEIGER
The Mullen Drug Co.

There is a point beyond which sunburn is not only acutely painful, but even dangerous. A day in the wind and sun, sailing, golfing, bathing, sleeping on the sands, can lead to exquisite misery and to serious illness.

Much of this discomfort can be avoided. People who burn easily should consult a physician at the first signs of discomfort. Alleviation is possible, and protection from serious results is absolutely essential.

The treatment of sunburn requires care, and preparations used should be of the purest and best ingredients. Follow the doctor's instructions to patronize a reputable druggist.

THE SACRED DAGGER

YESTERDAY: In theory Anne Willard and her two companions, Blaze Sherwood and Pete Mackey, are escaping from the court of the wicked Emir, Blaze having married Anne in order to accomplish it all. But actually the three of them fear they have been tricked by the Emir, although none is sure. They are galloping over the desert, talking to keep up their courage.

Chapter 12 Trapped?

ANNE put up a hand to stop him. You know all the answers, don't you? Then her tone changed. "Well, soon be parting and I want you to know that I'm grateful to you for rescuing me."

"And I'm grateful to you," he emphasized, "because an arch-enemy seriously married to a harem beauty." They both laughed.

A sharp turn in the road and they came to the end of the canyon and saw before them a great depression stretching wide and barren as far as the eye could see. Under a cliff at the right, beside a spring and a pool of water, a leaf was a tree flying the colors of the Emir of Yangsar.

The coachman drove up and stopped.

"Lunch time," said Sherwood, noticing the furnishings of the tent. He looked at the sun. "Early lunch time."

The riders followed immediately. Mackey rolled from his kneeling camel and came crawling over to the carriage as Sherwood helped Anne down.

"Sweet serpents," he moaned. "Piloting these things of the desert is a terrible business. I couldn't manage her allons or read her instrument board. She wobbled all over the map." He looked at the tent. "Do we dine in style! I guess you were right, Blaze, when you said that my brains and your luck and Miss Willard's charm would get us out of this."

Anne laughed lightly and led the way into the carpeted tent and the way into the carpeted tent and the way into the carpeted tent.

"Spread out before us is the Bekkan Depression," he began like a professional guide, "it's so wide that we cannot see the mountains on the farther side, so God-for-sake that even wild goats shun it. Salt marshes, quicksands, and miles and miles of yellow-brown clay as barren as the crater of the moon."

"I've seen it from the other side," said Sherwood, turning to Anne, "a few miles below the place where your father's camp is established. All that country including the Bekkan Bulu mountains, is disputed territory. The Chinese claim it. Shani Lin claims it. Our host, the Emir of Yangsar would like to claim it."

"The Chinese claim must be the best," murmured Anne. "There is a detachment of Chinese troops protecting our dig."

He glanced at her sharply. "Is that true?"

"I thought you knew everything," she smiled.

"Not quite," he grinned. She wondered if she'd done wrong in making that revelation.

"What are your plans when you reach Chuka?" she asked Mackey.

"Maybe I go north and proposition the Chinese Governor for a pilot's job. He hasn't a plane, but he ought to have one."

"Why don't you try Shani Lin?" asked Sherwood.

Mackey leaned towards him, eyes shining. "Do you think there's a chance?" he cried.

"Why not? The Prince is a white man. He likes to have fellows like you around. I'll write you a note for him now." He took paper and fountain pen from his pocket.

Suspicion

ANNE sat watching them, feeling a trifle lonely and out of it in the midst of all this planning. Their lives had been revolving around hers, and were now moving away.

"What are your plans?" she asked Blaze. He handed Mackey the note and put away his pen.

"I have no plans," he smiled back, "remember? I live each day as it comes."

Anne and Mackey stared doubtfully at his lean dark face with its look of self-discipline below the teasing grey eyes.

"That," remarked Anne, "sounds like the opposite of knowing what you want in life and going after it or does it?"

"From what I have seen most people get in their own way by planning and scheming. I've a hunch that if a man will be faithful to his objective life will work out the plan."

"He may mean it," she thought, a bit stirred as always by the idea.

The men were hitching three gurgling racing camels to the carriage.

They must intend to travel fast from now on," Sherwood remarked. Anne and Mackey followed him to the opening of the tent and stood beside him. He told Mackey of his talk with Dodd, Mackey nodded towards the gash in the plain where the river ran.

"Cheer up. We'll soon be free. That jumble of poles you see farther down is the bridge where we cross into Chinese territory. Once past it we're on our own. I hope the bridge is in repair. They never mend a bridge in this country until it collapses and kills a man or animal."

A postillion mounted the middle camel. The driver climbed to his seat, the footman bowed to his passengers. Anne took her place in the carriage followed by Sherwood and called back to Mackey.

"I suppose they'll test the bridge with us and if we survive you riders may cross."

"They'll probably have you drive the camels over alone," Mackey jested in return. "I've heard of the natives making such use of a woman." He would have mounted and ridden at their side, but the captain of the troop held him back.

"I wonder why?" Anne asked. The tall, angular beasts stretched out with increasing speed, their legs criss-crossing like animated saw-horses. Sometimes they broke into a gallop.

"Greetings were heard from Mrs. Claude English, Belfast, N. Y.; Allie Morrison, Pittsfield; Mrs. Maude Strong Patterson, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mrs. Nellie Anderson, Francis, Kelso, Wash.; Orma and Belle Newark Palmer, Jamestown, Pa.; Mrs. Lottie Cole French, Meadville; Percy, Clarence and Arthur Dunkle, Kellogg, Idaho; Mrs. Milly Culbertson Crumbaker, Pullman, Wash.; and Mrs. Geneva Dunkle Dreskell Olney, Burley, Wash."

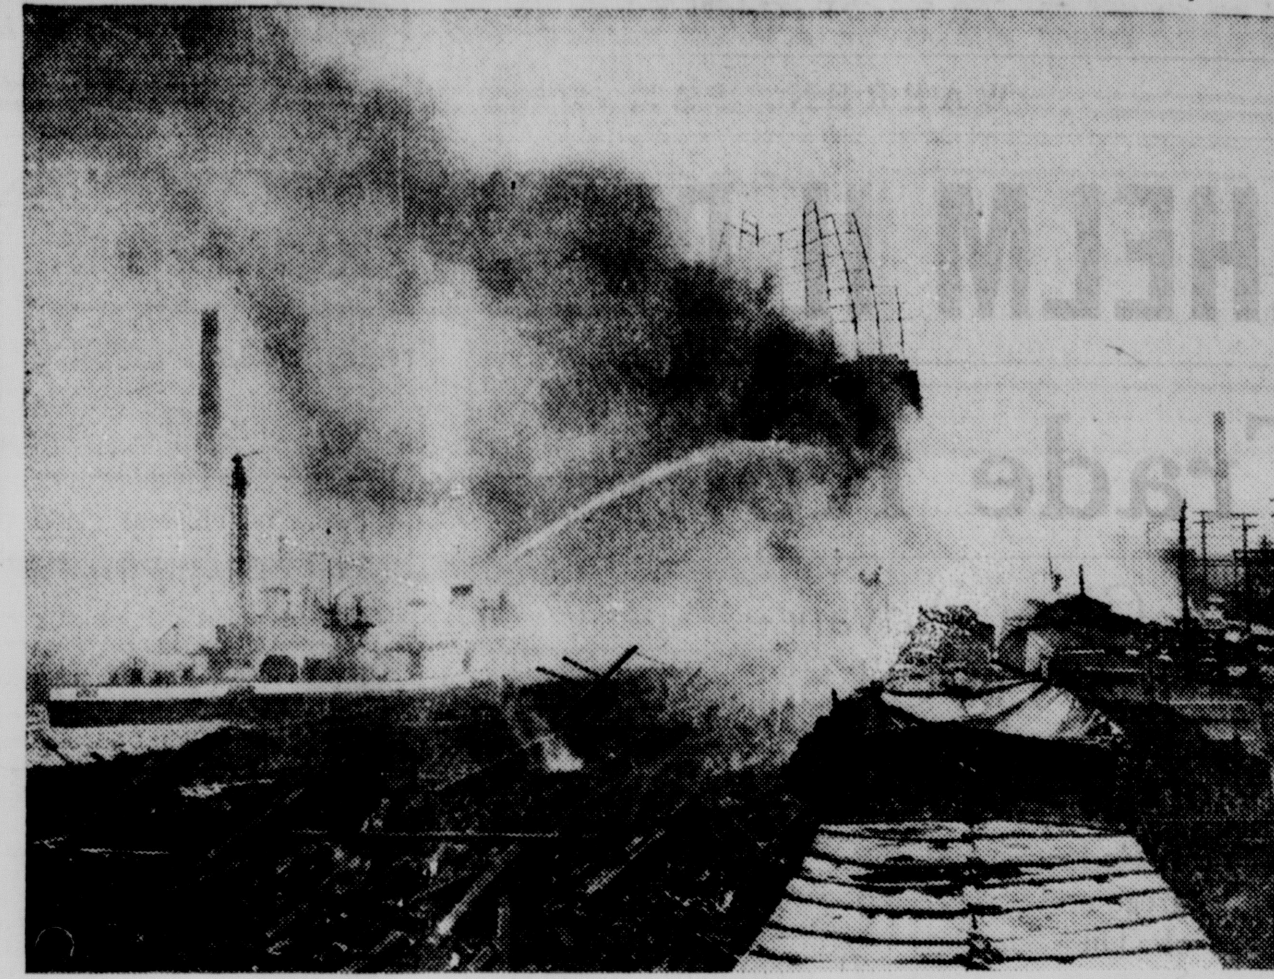

Officers called for the coming year were: Gertrude White, president; Christine Prentice, secretary-treasurer; Christine Prentice, Guyma Fredericks, Leam Satterlund and Guy Bassett, committee on arrangements; Virginia Berkhouse and John Campbell, cemetery committee. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Stong.
